Bicyclist Involved in Fatal Collision

(March 1, 2023) Phoenix police detectives are investigating a fatal collision in the area of Hatcher Road and Cave Creek Road that happened late Tuesday night.

On February 28, 2023, at 10:03 p.m. Phoenix police responded to a collision involving two vehicles and a bicyclist just north of Hatcher Road on Cave Creek Road. When officers got to the scene, they saw the adult male bicyclist on the ground and two adult drivers still on scene. The Phoenix Fire Department responded to the area and took the man to a local hospital where he later died from his injuries.

Detectives responded to take over the investigation and learned that the collision occurred when the bicyclist attempted to cross Cave Creek Road outside a marked cross walk. The victim was hit by a car traveling north on Cave Creek Road, driven by an adult female. After this first collision, the victim was hit a second time by an adult male driver traveling just behind the first vehicle. Both drivers were evaluated for signs of impairment; however, no indications were reported.
