AZ (LAND)

REGGIE CARRILLO, DJ ARMENTA, MONIQUE FRANCO, ELIZABETH MENDVIL

AZ(LAND) is a non-profit venture dreamed up by people living in the heat of the Sonoran desert. We bring together barrio innovation to provide educational, ecological, and innovative resources and research insights for communities of color. Our work gets inspiration from the nopales, our ancestors and elders on this land to collectively engage in the work of future making so that we may continue to survive on these lands for the next thousand years.

SHOMIT BARUA

Shomit Barua is an intermedia artist specializing in ecoacoustics, responsive environments, and emergent narratives. His work is rooted in poetry and architecture, and reflects the shared tenets of contained space, economy of materials, and movement that is both physical and emotional. Combining everyday technologies with esoteric programming languages, he blurs the line between installation and performance, weaving together sound, object, and image. Digital and analog techniques are fused to investigate his principle subject: the presence of the mind and body in a physical space.

Having collaborated with sculptors, dancers, musicians, architects, and visual artists, he believes that exploration of a motif is amplified - made "robust" and "thick" - through dialogue between disciplines. He holds an MFA in Poetry from Bennington College and teaches at Arizona State University while completing doctoral research at ASU's School of Arts, Media, and Engineering.

JOSE BENAVIDES & JOE RAY

Jose Benavides, an artist, and engineer based in Chandler, AZ, has showcased his work in diverse exhibitions, spanning from the White House in Washington DC to Burning Man, an international art experience in the Nevada Desert, and numerous other venues. By seamlessly integrating both artistic and engineering perspectives, Jose's sculptural art, which involves the upcycling of materials, addresses social justice issues in a highly relevant and impactful manner.

Joe Ray is a visual artist (painter, printmaker, sculptor) and illustrator living in Scottsdale, AZ. Joe's work reflects a colorful bi-cultural perspective formed by the Arizona and Mexico regions. Joe's work has been exhibited and published throughout the U.S. and Mexico. His work evokes color and passion, much of his subject matter includes cultural iconography such as corazones filled with love, passion, and emotion. In addition to being a visual artist, Joe is a presenter at regional and national conferences. Joe weaves storytelling into his topics, crafting word pictures to evoke a strong sense of place and emotion for the audience.

Both Jose and Joe are long-time artist members of Xico: Arte y Cultura, located in downtown Phoenix.

KIRA DOMINGUEZ HULTGREN

Kira Dominguez Hultgren is a U.S.-based artist, weaver, and educator. They studied postcolonial theory and literature at Princeton University, and studio arts and visual and critical studies at California College of the Arts. Their research interests include material and embodied rhetorics, re-storying material culture, and weaving as a performative critique of the visual. Dominguez Hultgren weaves with the material afterlife of a so-called multiracial family: Chicanx-Indigenous-Indian-Hollywood Hawaiian-Brown-Black. Instead of being passed down, weaving and textile processes are brought up, resurrected from family stories and fabrics. Questions about cultural appropriation and codeswitching, exoticism, and performing cultural misrecognitions occupy their practice.

Dominguez Hultgren has exhibited their work broadly including shows at Lehmann Maupin Gallery, Ballroom Marfa, the Museum of Arts and Design, the Roswell Museum, and Eleanor Harwood Gallery in San Francisco. Their work has received critical attention including reviews in the New York Times and Architectural Digest; and is in the de Young Museum of Fine Art's permanent collection. Dominguez Hultgren is an assistant professor in Fiber and Material Studies at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago. They are a 2024 Center for Craft Research Fund recipient, 2024 Illinois Arts Council Fellowship recipient, and a 2024 United States Artists Fellow.

LUKE HAYNES

Luke Haynes is an architect turned quilter with a love for creating tactile objects that have a history of utility and a future of self-preservation. After surviving a childhood of poverty and an Autism diagnosis, Haynes values using recycled textiles in his work and is passionate about using quilts to convey comfort, systems of support, and accessibility for all. Luke is recognized as a core pillar of the "modern quilting movement" for his projects that bring quilting techniques into public art installations and community activations. His quilts have been shown in over 150 shows and are in the private collections of multiple art museums including the Brooklyn Museum, Newark Museum, Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, and The Norton Collection.

FENG-FENG YEH

Feng-Feng Yeh is a chef and emerging multi-disciplinary artist who explores identity, feminism, and activism, under a provocative lens of sensuality, nostalgic camp, and comedy. She is the brainchild of the Chinese Chorizo Project, an Andy Warhol Foundation for the Arts awarded project. October 2023 was named Chinese Chorizo Month by the Pima County Board of Supervisors thanks to the Chinese Chorizo Project's efforts in recognizing the contributions of immigrants in America. Yeh is the first recipient of the Tucson City of Gastronomy Food Visionary Award and was recently awarded the Downtown Tucson for Everyone Grant. Featured in Vogue and WWD for her NYC based womenswear line Savant, Yeh's first exploration in multi-dimensional productions evolved to an art utilizing food as a vehicle to explore ideas of consumption and its related performance, spectacle, and response. Providing an intersectional perspective between the connections of collaboration, art, food, history, and humanity, Yeh hopes to uplift underrepresented communities across boundaries.

BOBBY ZOKAITES

Bobby Zokaites is a U.S. based sculptor skilled in a variety of materials with a wealth of experience producing large scale works for private and public spaces. His industrious work ethic and urban design sense enable him to create distinctive works of art that foster new and dynamic relationships between community, site, history and the natural environment. Blurring the line between fine art, public sculpture, and collaborative practices, his work engages diverse audiences, humanizes public spaces, and often encourages participation with larger-than-life-sized artwork. Zokaites earned his BFA at New York College of Ceramics at Alfred University (2008) and his MFA in Sculpture at Arizona State University (2014). He is currently commissioned for nine permanent public art sculptures underway in Arizona, Idaho, and Minnesota. It is integral to Zokaites' practice that his work connects residents to one another and their community in new ways, creating new and lasting experiences.
