PUBLIC WORKS

Phoenix Implements Hazardous Waste Home Pick-up Program

The Phoenix City Council recently approved the implementation of a six month pilot program that will allow Phoenix solid waste customers to schedule a home pickup of their household hazardous waste (HHW) materials beginning mid-January 2021.

The HHW Home Pickup Pilot Program will be managed by the Phoenix Public Works Department in partnership with Kary Environmental Services, a local company that offers professional collection and handling of hazardous waste materials. Public Works is responsible for the proper collection, diversion and disposal of trash and recyclable materials from more than 400,000 Phoenix residential customers.

To participate in the program and schedule a pickup beginning Tuesday, Jan. 19, solid waste residential customers who wish to dispose of HHW materials--such as paints, aerosols, batteries, electronics and chemicals--need to remember three simple steps:

1. Check acceptable HHW materials list by visiting phoenix.gov/publicworks/HHW. The list is extensive and details the maximum quantities for accepted chemicals, paints and some electronics, per scheduled collection.
2. Schedule a home pick-up online at phoenix.gov/publicworks/HHW or by calling 602-262-6251. Residents may schedule a pickup during the last two weeks of every other month, beginning in January. Actual collection of the materials will take place the following month.
3. Place properly contained, sealed, and labeled HHW materials at a visible and accessible area next to your garage or front door on the scheduled pickup date. This is important for safety purposes. DO NOT place HHW materials at the curb or on the sidewalk.

“During these difficult times, it's important for the City of Phoenix to provide vital services to our residents in a safe, physically distanced way,” said Vice Mayor Thelda Williams, chair of the Transportation, Infrastructure and Innovation subcommittee. “By implementing home pickups for household hazardous waste materials, the Public Works department is meeting this need, while also ensuring proper disposal of chemicals and toxic wastes that could harm families and the environment.”

There is no additional cost to request a home pickup for solid waste residential customers. The program is already included as part of the solid waste monthly rate. For the six month duration of the pilot program, each solid waste customer/household is entitled to one free HHW pick-up. Additionally, the current HHW Alternative Drop-off program, implemented in April 2020, will remain available at no cost to Phoenix solid waste customers.

HHW Collection Background Information:

The city of Phoenix has been hosting HHW collection events since 1988 to ensure the proper disposal of chemicals and other toxic wastes that affect human health and the environment. Before the pandemic, the Public Works Department hosted nine drive thru HHW collection events per year at various locations, with each event occurring on a Friday and Saturday. On average, each HHW drive-thru event garnered 700 customers/vehicles.

In April, however, all HHW collection events were canceled because of physical-distancing protocols for the safety of customers, employees and contractors. As a quick alternative for residents, Public Works offered three different vendor drop-off locations, where residents can call ahead to drop off HHW materials at their own time. Since switching to the drop-off model in April, the average number of customers who took advantage of the no-cost HHW drop-off option decreased to 200 per month.

On average, Phoenix's HHW collection program diverts approximately 500-700 tons of HHW materials from the landfill.
