Homicide Investigation

Phoenix police are investigating an early morning shooting near 2600 East South Mountain Avenue that has left an adult man dead, and another man injured.

Early in the morning, August 21, 2022, Phoenix Police responded to the area of 2600 East South Mountain Avenue after receiving a call of multiple shots being fired in the area. Responding officers arrived on scene and located a male in a nearby alley who suffered gunshot wounds. The man was later identified as Steven Magana who did not survive from his injuries. Another adult man was found with gunshot wounds and was transported to the local hospital with non-life-threatening injuries.

Officers located a vehicle leaving the surrounding area they believed to be involved in the shooting. After a short police pursuit, the vehicle was in a minor collision near 800 West Broadway Road. The vehicle was occupied by four individuals that were detained without further incident. There were no reported injuries from this crash.

Investigators responded to both locations to process the scene and assume the investigation. The occupants of the vehicle do not appear to be involved in the shooting incident at this time. Details about what led up to the shooting are still under investigation. Updates will be provided when information becomes available.
